Aldeyra Therapeutics Announces 2016 Research and Development Day

LEXINGTON, MA -- (Marketwired) -- 09/09/16 -- Aldeyra Therapeutics, Inc. (NASDAQ: ALDX) (Aldeyra), a biotechnology company focused on the development of products to treat diseases related to aldehydes, today announced that it will host a Research and Development Day to discuss the company's late-stage clinical programs in ocular inflammation and inborn errors of aldehyde metabolism. Aldeyra will also provide a summary of recent discussions with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Management and speaker presentations will begin at 8:00 a.m. Eastern Time on Monday, September 26, 2016 at the offices of Dechert, LLP in New York City.

A live webcast of the presentation and slide deck will be available via the Company's Investor Relations website at <http://ir.aldeyra.com>. Following the live webcast, an archived version will be available on the website until September 25, 2017.

About Aldeyra Therapeutics

Aldeyra Therapeutics, Inc. is a biotechnology company devoted to improving lives by inventing, developing and commercializing products that treat diseases thought to be related to endogenous aldehydes, a naturally occurring class of pro-inflammatory and toxic molecules. Aldeyra's lead product candidate, NS2, is an aldehyde trap in development for ocular inflammation, as well as for Sjögren-Larsson Syndrome and Succinic Semi-Aldehyde Dehydrogenase Deficiency, two inborn errors of aldehyde metabolism. NS2 has not been approved for sale in the U.S. or elsewhere.
